

IDII Company Wide License Agreement for IDII Publications

Industrial Data & Information Inc. (IDII) grants a company wide license for employees of the company to view, read, copy and print copies of the purchased IDII publication(s) whether it is a research report or book. This license applies to any form of the publication, whether printed, or in electronic form such as PDF, E-Book, Word, or other format. This license covers only the edition of the publication(s) that has been purchased from IDII with the company-wide license option. IDII's aim is to provide the company publication(s) for the benefit of the company's employees.

Internal Distribution Only

Company agrees that employees are not to share, distribute, nor resell IDII publication(s) to third parties outside the company. This includes, but is not limited to, contractors, VARS, ISVs, dealers, distributors, customers, vendors, carriers, and any other party that is not an employee of the company. Sharing or selling copies of the IDII publication(s) outside of the company is strictly prohibited. Company agrees that its employees will encourage these outside parties to purchase legitimate copies of these publication(s).

Secured Intranet Access

Company may place licensed IDII publication(s) on its intranet for company employees' usage only. Employees may email licensed IDII publication(s) to one another. Contractors and third parties having access to the intranet of the company must be denied access to licensed IDII publications(s). Company agrees to keep its licensed IDII publication(s) out of the public domain including the Internet, extranets, websites, storage/retrieval systems, and other public access mechanisms.

Intact Publication Purity

Company agrees not to change the licensed IDII publication(s) in any manner and not to remove any company wide licensing information that has been added to the licensed IDII publication(s) for the company wide license.

Future Edition Notifications

Future editions of IDII publications may become available from time to time. IDII will notify the company that the new edition is available and the company may choose whether or not to purchase the future edition at that time.
